Progress Pie - beta

Posted on 14 September 2011

As part of the MAP 2.0 Consultation, we have been collecting the goals and aspirations that other initiatives have developed. These projects may not have statistical measures associated with them, but they aim to set out the important aspects of life and important goals.

We hope this tool will give you an idea of the different types of goals other projects are articulating. It's our first attempt and information may have changed since we accessed the links. Please let us know of any issues, if there are initiatives we could add, or if you have any thoughts on the way we have mapped these initiatives to the MAP 2010 framework.

This is very useful - there are dozens, probably hundreds of international initiatives you could add.{ Link } is one place to get a list - the most obvious gap in your pie is UNDP's human development index. But there are natonal overnment project in the UK, Ireland, Luxembourg, Finland, Bhutan and many other places,as well as many more run by civil society and others. Good luck Jon
